A HORRIBLE COLLISION.

NINETY LIVES LOST AND MANY PERSONS INJURED.

A Freight Train Running at Thirty Miles an Hour, Telescopes a Passenger Train—Almost One Hundred Lives Lost—Killed and Burned in the Wreck.

REVENA, Ohio, July 3.—The worst railroad accident that ever occurred in this vicinity happened at 3 o'clock this morning. The horrible calamity has fairly appalled the town and neighborhood. Ninety people were killed and the bodies were burned to a crisp. More than that number are injured. The charred remains of the dead were taken from the ruins of the demolished passenger train as fast as the flames could be subdued by the townspeople, who rallied to the rescue. The express, loaded with sleeping passengers, was run into by a freight train while the express was standing in this city. The wreck of the passenger train was terrible and complete. To add to the condition of the unfortunate passengers, who were imprisoned in the debris, the train caught fire and was consumed. In this way death fairly swept through the wrecked train. By daylight 20 bodies, all of them charred in a horrible manner, were taken out. Twenty-three injured had also been reached. A large number of the killed were glass blowers by trade. The list of the victims so far as identified are as follows: Dead—Mrs. Hill, Corning, N.Y.; Robt. S. David, Corning, N. Y.; Kane Williams, Brooklyn; G. Albert, Corning, N. Y.; G. Henry, Corning, N. Y. Missing—Fred Huff, Fred Burns, Jno. Griffin, A. Hardman, Louis Kamball, Wm. Newcomb, Corning, N.Y. Geo. Holman, engineer of the freight, said to a reporter: "I cannot see that I am to blame. Oh! my God, if I could have got sand I could have stopped the train, but the rails were wet. I was not not warned in time and could not see the lights of the express owing to the darkness and fog. I reversed the lever as quickly as possible and jumped from the train, sustaining severe fracture of the right hand. Holman seems to think the flagman of the passenger train, Fred Boyle could have flagged from a greater distance.

The glass blowers were on their way east from Findlay. The freight train that telescoped the express was running about 30 miles an hour when it struck the passenger train. The accident was due to carelessness in leaving the switch open. It is said three members of the Pittsburg baseball team were killed in the wreck.

LANGEVIN-M'GREEVY SCANDAL.

Murphy Under Cross-Examination—His Evidence Still Unshaken.

OTTAWA, July 3.—At the investigation to day, the cross-examination of Murphy was proceeded with by Osler. The counsel endeavored to show that Murphy was in default of some money transaction in New York when he first came to Canada. The witness admitted having spent a large sum in elections in New York, and owing to his property decreasing in value he was unable to meet the amount he drew out of bank, but intends to pay every cent. This matter was well known to Langevin, McGreevy and Connolly prior to his joining the latter firm. So far the examination elicited nothing new, and notwithstanding Osler's skilled efforts in handling the witness, he remained calm and collected throughout.

In the Privileges and Elections committee, Thursday morning, Mr. Fitzpatrick, counsel, produced five notes of $5000 each, given, according to earlier evidence, to Robert McGreevy by Larkin, Connolly & Co., for Thomas, for changes obtained on the cross-wall contract. Witness Murphy said yesterday he asked Thomas McGreevy to help them get the changes, and he did help them all he could. Pat Kelly, of Quebec, produced two additional boxes containing cheques, vouchers and other documents belonging to the firm. Martin Connolly, the bookkeeper, identified a number of cheques in connection with the British Columbia works. O. E. Murphy was then recalled as a witness, and read another batch of letters from communicative Mike Connolly to witness, written from Esquimalt, B.C., and Texas. Asked as to the removal of the objectionable Government engineer, Mr. Bennett, on the Esquimalt graving dock, witness said he offered Thos. McGreevy $5000 to get him removed. This was by direction of the firm, given him by Nicholas Connolly, at the funeral of the latter's wife. He also talked it over with Larkin and others at a dinner in Buffalo. Bennett was not removed, and, as they could not find a suitable person, after a talk with Mr. Thos. McGreevy, Chief Engineer Perley was sent to British Columbia. The committee adjourned until tomorrow.

A Kleptomaniac.

PITTSBURG, July 3.—John Cameron and Miss Carrie Duff were married here to-night. This afternoon Miss Duff was arrested for robbing jewelry stores, and Cameron was taken into custody as an accomplice. Both were subsequently released on $500 bail. Levi B. Duff, the young woman's uncle, widely known as a Pittsburgh attorney, becoming their security. Miss Duff's family is not wealthy, nor is Cameron's, but the bride determined to have a handsome trousseau and to go on a wedding tour also, so she started in to "work" the large jewelry stores. Her fancy turned to diamond rings. She dressed well, is refined looking, and of modest bearing. She tripped into several jewelry shops from day to day and looked over the rings. Her trick was to drop her handkerchief over a ring on the show case, and then after examining samples to her heart's content, walk off with a sparkler. Her next move was to take the gem to a pawnbroker and sell it, the proceeds going to the wedding fund. In this way she is known to have disposed of four rings valued at $600; how many more she got is not known. Her detection came about to-day, at the store of Biggs & Co., one of the largest in town. She acted so suspiciously that a clerk telephoned for the police. Cameron is employed in one of the leading jewelry establishments, and the police suspect that he and Miss Duff planned to work all the jewelry stores before embarking in life together. Cameron declares his innocence; while Miss Duff's family declare she is a kleptomaniac.

Probably Murdered.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A Mount Carmal, Pa., special to the Sun says: Mrs. Perry Knorr, agent for a corset manufacturing company of Chicago, disappeared from her home here several days ago. She had an appointment at Germantown, a small village one mile from here, but never arrived. A diligent search was made without result. This evening, while John Derr, a teamster, was driving to Ashland, he found a corset and order book, which is without doubt the property of Mrs. Knorr. The ground where the articles were picked up bears evidence of a struggle. It is now believed that the woman was attacked by tramps, and after being assaulted was murdered and her body thrown down one of the deep mine breaches.

A Tragic Death.

MONTECELLO, Ill., July 3.—There was a tragic scene here to-day when Charles Huffman, who had just been united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Loghty, dropped dead with heart disease. The bride became almost distracted with grief. Huffman recently fell from the third story of the Tremont Hotel at Montecello and survived the fall.

THE KAISER ON HIS WAY TO ENGLAND.

Papal Influence Against the Triple Alliance—Welch Tin-platers Working on Half Time—Boers Repulsed by the South African Company, etc.

LONDON, July 3.—The Kaiser has started for England. Before leaving Amsterdam he expressed to the Queen Regent his deep appreciation of the cordiality of his reception in Holland, and congratulated her upon the ability with which she governed the kingdom. The Kaiser bestowed a good deal of notice on the child Queen Wilhelmina, whose name has been connected by public report with that of the German Crown Prince, as to the probability of a marriage should both of them reach marriageable age. The Kaiser is said to have given Queen Emma assurance of his purpose to respect the integrity and independence of Holland, and his desire to remain on terms of amity with that country. The British channel fleet is now assembled for the purpose of receiving the Kaiser on his arrival at Sheerness.

THE PAPAL INFLUENCE.

A Berlin dispatch says that a painful impression has been produced there by the article in the Observatore Romano, denouncing the triple alliance. It is accepted as proof that the influence of the papacy will be on the side of France in the event of European war, France to repay the favor, in case of success, by restoration of the temporal power. The article is believed to settle against the Jesuits the question of their readmission to Prussia, coming as it does close after the important concession made by the Prussian Government in the restoration to the Catholic hierarchy of the state aid sequestered by Bismarck. The hostile attitude of the Vatican is particularly surprising. It is likely that the government will make no semi-official deliverance on the subject during the absence of the Kaiser.

THE TIN PLATE WORKERS.

The English workmen generally are interested in the Welsh tin plate struggles. But for the newspapers the masters would doubtless have persisted in their lockout. The newspapers pointed out that this meant the transfer of the business to America. Thereupon the masters concluded to prevent the trade if possible from leaving their hands, and they are giving the workmen partial employment. The Sheffield cutlers are also very much aggrieved by the dullness of their trade, owing to the American tariff, and they are casting about for some method of making up for the loss. Many of the workmen talk of going to America.

REINSTATED.

A Berlin dispatch says that Herr Von Puttkamer, who was dismissed from office under the former Chancellor, is to be appointed Governor of Pomerania. This action is taken at the personal instance of the Kaiser.

In Vienna yesterday the Papal nuncia, Monsignor Galimburti, was treated with great coolness wherever he made his appearance.

REPULSE OF THE BOERS.

According to Cape Town advices, great rejoicing has been caused by the repulse of the advance guard of the Boers in Mashonaland, by the armed force of the British South Africa Company. The force is largely composed of young men of excellent families in England, and of adventurers from all over the world. It is felt, however, that the danger is not yet over, as several thousand Boers are engaged in the trek and the company's police are inadequate to repulse an extensive attack. British troops are being hurried to Mashonaland to aid in the repulse of any larger body that might invade the colony.

THE KAISER'S VISIT.

The Kaiser's refusal to have a particular day set down for his entertainment in England is commented on everywhere. The official programme at the Guildhall, it is believed, will be carried out as originally decided on. The Emperor and Empress will come to the Guildhall a week from to-day. They will proceed to the city proper from Buckingham Palace to the Strand, Fleet street, Ludgate Hill and Cheapside, and return by way of Queen Victoria street and the Embankment. The streets will be gaily decorated. The proceedings at the Guildhall will consist of the reading in the library of an address of welcome by the recorder of the corporation of London and the Kaiser's reply. The ceremony will be followed by luncheon.

DISPOSITION OF DIONYSIUS.

Much bitterness has been aroused among members of the Greek Church in Bosnia by the deposition of the metropolitan Dionysius, by the Austrian Government, for his devotion to the Czar of Russia. Dionysius taught his flock that the Czar was their temporal and spiritual sovereign and that no claim upon their loyalty should be considered as superior to that of the Czar. Dionysius having remained obstinate, notwithstanding repeated warnings, has been stripped of all his clerical estate and deposed from the office of exarch. Count Kalnoky ordered this action to be taken as a notice that the Austro-Hungarian Government would not tolerate any approach to disloyalty or any disposition to aggrandize Russia at the expense of the Austrian empire.

SIR JOHN GORST.

The breach between Viscount Cross and Sir John Gorst is far from being healed, notwithstanding the good offices of Lord Salisbury. The independent course of Sir John gives color to the report that he would sooner be out of the administration than in it if he could get away without too much abruptness. Sir John was seen yesterday in the lobbies conversing with Morley and other leading Radicals, and the fact is considered significant in consequence of the persistence of Sir John in the odious role of a candid friend. The political secretary for India has been for some time past drifting away from his fellow Tories and even should he remain among them he stands but little chance of future confidence. Among the Liberals he would receive a hearty welcome both on account of his rugged sincerity and his valuable knowledge of Indian affairs.

AFRAID TO FACE THE PUNISHMENT.

Necobain, the Belfast M.P., will within a few days be expelled from Parliament, unless he chooses to come forward and face his accusers. His whining letter in which he pretends sickness as a reason for avoiding a trial on the charges against him is not favorably received. He can only escape expulsion by appearing in person in court.

A SUPERSTITIOUS DUKE.

The baptism of the daughter of Princess Louise and the Duke of Fife took place a few days ago, and the Queen became god-mother to her great-grand-daughter. The Duke of Fife is greatly relieved by the decision that the child's title is to be Lady Fife, instead of Princess. He believes that the ancient curse which tradition says rests upon the House of Fife, has become extinct, having reached its highest point and fulfilled itself with him. The heir to the dukedom is an old and childless man, but it will now be possible, in case Lady Fife ever has male issue, for her to take the title of Duchess of Fife in her own right and thus perpetuate the ancient name, whereas if she were a princess the inferior title could not be revived.

THE CROFTERS.

In the House of Commons Chancellor Goschen said the Government were willing to advance £50,000 to promote immigration to British Columbia from the Scottish highlands.

GUESTS OF HOLLAND.

The flotilla escorting the Emperor of Germany and his party arrived at Amsterdam yesterday, accompanied by the Dutch squadron. Upon landing at the dock here yesterday the Emperor was received by the Queen, who is only 11 years of age, and by the Queen Regent, Princess of Waldeck. The Queen and Queen Regent were surrounded by a brilliant gathering of cabinet ministers, army officers and municipal and other authorities. After a most imposing ceremony of reception, the imperial guests of Holland were escorted to the palace, where they will be entertained during their stay in the city. All the shipping in the harbor and all the main thoroughfares are decorated with flags, and this evening there will be a brilliant illumination in honor of the young Emperor of Germany. The route leading from the landing place to the palace was lined with troops and crowded to the utmost with enthusiastic citizens. After passing an hour at the palace, the Emperor drove through the city, seemingly well pleased. A picturesque incident was a grand military tattoo by an orchestra of nearly 1000 men, at 9 o'clock this evening, in the Dom square, rendering "Heil Dir im Siegeskranz". It was remarkably impressive. The Emperor witnessed all this after the grand banquet at the palace.

ABOUT ETIQUETTE.

The Prince of Wales had a long interview to-day with the Queen, who summoned him for the purpose of discussing and settling a number of perplexing questions as to court etiquette and precedence, on account of the approaching visit of the Emperor of Germany. The court, militia and society and nearly all other circles are more or less stirred up by the Emperor's coming, and thousands will not breathe freely until he has left. German detectives and British detectives are already attending to business, for the fact that there are hot-heads and Emperor-hating Germans and Frenchmen in Great Britain is not lost sight of by the authorities.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

The Matin declares that the new triple alliance treaty suppresses three clauses of the first treaty, as follows: 1. That clause which compelled Italy to send an army corps to the Alpine frontier in the event of a Franco-German war. 2. The clause compelling Austria to station troops on the Russian frontier in the event of a Russo-German war; and, 3, the clause fixing a minimum peace effective force of Italy and Austria. The three powers, however, according to the Matin, mutually guarantee the integrity of their respective territories.

TO ANNEX SIAM.

A dispatch to the Standard from Bangkok, Siam, says the French troops have occupied the province of Luang Prabang, on the East Mekonk river, hitherto a vassal state of Siam. The Standard supposes the occupation of Luang Prabang is a prelude to the eventual attempt by France to annex Siam, with the object, possibly, of assisting Russian designs in Eastern Asia.

EDISON'S KINETOGRAPH.

LATEST INVENTION OF THE MENLO PARK WIZARD.

A Machine That Will Take Forty-six Photographs Per Second, Which Reproduced Show all Movements of the Subject—A Wonderful Sight.

From the laboratory of the Wizard of Menlo Park there is coming an invention which out-Edisons Edison. It is the marriage of the phonograph with the camera—the union in one instrument of sound and sight. With it the opera can be carried into the parlor and the artist can not only be heard, but seen. The popular preacher, the eminent public speaker, with it can all be brought into the home. The new wonder will be called the "kinetograph" a strange-sounding title to the ear today, but destined perhaps soon to become as familiar as locomotive or telephone, both strange words in their infancy. Mr. Edison has been at work on this newest conception of his genius for three years. Now he knows that its base principal is right, all that remains to be done is to perfect the details. The new invention is a combination machine, in which the phonograph and the photographic camera work together. It will reproduce not only sound, but also a picture of what passes before it. Not a mere instantaneous impression of objects, but a continuous representation of them for a considerable space of time. Mr. Edison claims it will reproduce an opera. The phonograph will render the music and the photographic apparatus will reproduce the performers, so that their presence on the stage will be depicted, every muscle of their faces will be seen to work, their strides, movements, all will be true to nature. In other words, the camera will give a continuous picture of a singer on the stage for, say, thirty minutes, all his motions and gestures, while its ally, the phonograph, will record every note he utters. To produce this result it was necessary for the inventor to be able to take a series of instantaneous photographs, following each other in such quick succession that no lapse of time can be detected between the impressions recorded, and the series of pictures become in effect but one continuous picture. And thus Mr. Edison has succeeded in doing. Operated by an electric motor, his camera will take forty-six impressions in each second of time, and in this way the impressions are recorded so rapidly that the motions become resolved into pure motions, instead of a series of jerks. The impressions are recorded on a long roll of gelatin paper fastened to a spindle, which passes over a photographic lens. This is how Mr. Edison himself describes the wonder: "The machine starts, moves, uncloses, stops, takes a photograph, closes, starts, uncloses, stops, takes another, and so on, and 46 of these are recorded every second." And this process can be kept up for 30 minutes without a pause. So 2760 photographs can be taken each minute and 82,800 every half hour. Thus the full representation of, say, an opera, the movement on the stage and music can be recorded by this novel machine. Mr. Edison has no doubt that he will live to see an opera recorded and reproduced by the kinetograph. Said he: "I take, for example, a dress rehearsal of 'Erminie.' I will place my machine on a table in front of the stage. The two agencies, the phonograph and the kinetograph, will work together in harmony and with a continuous capacity of 30 minutes. Both will start as the curtain rises. The phonograph will record the music while the kinetograph will record the motions of the performers at the rate of forty-six impressions per second. This will give a continuous picture of what is going on on the stage. Afterward the photographic slips will be developed, replaced in the machine, and a projecting lens will be substituted for the photographic lens. Then the reproducing part of the phonograph will be adjusted, and by means of a calcium light the whole effect can be reproduced at life size on a white curtain in front of an audience. The original scene will appear to their eyes as true as life. They will see the singers before them, and all their movements and gestures will appear as if they were actually on the stage. The colors will not appear, but otherwise you will see and hear the opera as you see it at the Casino. The machine is, in fact, merely a mechanical eye." Mr. Edison has not yet a perfected machine at work. He does not expect to have a perfect one for some time yet. He has an experimental one rigged up in his workshop, covered by a wooden box. It is a regular photographic machine impelled by an electric motor. In the top of the box was a hole about the size of a silver dollar. The machine was started and I looked through the orifice. What I saw was the form of a man about an inch in size bowing and raising his hat. The motions were natural and continuous and no break could be detected between them. The picture I saw was only a negative, photographed on an endless slip. At the greatest rate of speed no gap could be noticed between the bows. They came along smoothly and naturally. But when the speed was decreased to 20 and 30 pictures per second the difference was at once noticeable. The motions became jerky and irregular. Once set going by any power, the camera works automatically. It is the great speed attained and the great number of impressions obtained in a limited space of time which, Mr. Edison says, enables him to get the pure motion of continuous photograph depicting everything that occurs. The vibrations of light and motion are gotten rid of. The two machines, the phonograph and kinetograph, must work simultaneously and exactly together or the result would not be a success. After the impressions are recorded any number of duplicates can be struck off, and when perfected this machine could be operated in any household. It will reproduce anything that can be photographed, and the phonograph will attend to the sound. It can be applied to the ring, and a whole prize fight or sparring exhibition with the motions, blows, and talk, can be reproduced before an audience. The Wizard says it is very simple. "I wrote an article some years ago," he said, "hinting at this very invention. The papers made fun of me—said I had better stop talking. This made me mad, and I determined to carry the conception to a successful issue. I felt confident that I could do it. The only trouble about it was to take the impressions fast enough, so as to secure pure motion. This I have done. I intend to have it ready and in practical working shape for the Chicago Exposition."

CARTWRIGHT'S RECIPROCITY

Declared That It Alone Will be Adopted by the United States.

TORONTO, June 26.—A Washington special says: "The concluding clause in Cartwright's motion in Parliament, that the reciprocity negotiations with the States should be conducted 'upon a basis of the most extended freedom in trade in manufactured as well as in natural products,' touches the key note of the whole situation here. It is possible that to the very last Sir John cherished a hope of the revival of the treaty of 1854. This was a dream, as was made very clear by the reciprocity correspondence that has been handed down in Parliament. Every Canadian must now know, who knows anything of public affairs, that the reciprocity which Sir Richard demands is the only kind which can possibly be attained. Nothing is now clearer than the fact that nothing but unrestricted reciprocity will ever be considered, much less accepted, by the United States. Anything else will be rejected peremptorily. It was only a fit sense of public responsibility that prevented Mr. Blaine from bringing the Conservative plan of battle in the Dominion election to confusion by expressing in some public fashion the settled determination of his government never to accept from Canada another reciprocity treaty like that of 1854.

THE H.B.R.

The Globe says the Line is a Vast Rat Hole for Absorbing Money.

TORONTO, June 27.—The Globe in an editorial on the Hudson's Bay railway, points out that Manitoba, Keewatin, Alberta, Assiniboia, Athabasca and Saskatchewan contains 990,000 square miles, while the population does not amount to mere than 200,000 souls, or one for every four square miles, and says: "If the road should fulfil half the expectations formed of it, it would destroy the Winnipeg main line between Winnipeg and Montreal by diverting all the freight of the Northwest to northern seas. Even that consideration does not stagger the 'hustlers.' There is a bonus in sight, and they are after it. The firm of Macdonald & Tupper, Winnipeg, has already filed a claim for $30,000 for services rendered on the bonus given it. The grant of $80,000 a year will soon blossom into a larger sum; in fact, if Hugh Sutherland cannot induce the English investor to swallow his hook, the Canadian taxpayer may be let in for the entire cost of building the line from Winnipeg to York Factory, and equipping steamships to do battle with the ice. All the hustlers have to do is to keep the project on the boards, to make it an issue before the elections. If the Manitobans compromise, the cabinet, with a majority of only twenty, cannot afford to resist the pressure, though every member may know the undertaking is without merit, save as a vast rat hole for absorbing money. We put it to any reasonable person whether the construction of 700 miles of road into the Arctic circle is called for or is advisable at this stage of our career. It is not necessary to enquire whether the Hudson's Bay route is feasible or not. If it were open twelve months in the year it would not attract freight, for freight seeks the line of least resistence and the navigation of those waters, even in the brief summer, is attended with delays and dangers, which must mitigate against a profitable traffic. The question whether we can afford to plunge into such an enterprise is the only question worth considering, and on that ground the scheme stands condemned. The Government desires, of course, to keep its followers from Manitoba and the Territories in good humor. It is the lesser province in the Government, and as Tupper said at Amherst, "it must boy or die."

CANADIAN NEWS.

Late Canadian News Culled From our Exchanges.

All lumber mills in the neighborhood of St. John, N. B., will be closed down for the season unless the men consent to work 10 hours. Low prices of deals in the English market, the carpenter's strike in New York, and longer hours worked by United States mill hands, renders this step necessary as the mills are now running at a loss. If the mills shut down over 12,000 men will be thrown out of work.

Northwest Land Company's sales of land show quite an increase as compared with last year. From January 1st to January 20th the sales were 20,410, as against 8885 acres at $48,213 during the corresponding period of 1890. During the five days to June 26, sales were 3769 acres at $1,898.

Rev. Wm. Fawcett, D.D., of Chicago, has endowed a prize in Victoria College to be known as the Michael Fawcett prize, and to be given each year for the best essay on Methodism.

The rain greatly interfered with the Dominion celebration throughout Ontario. At some points, however, the weather permitted the carrying out the programmes of school childrens' demonstrations, with patriotic addresses, trades processions and sports of all kinds. Business was entirely suspended. The Montreals defeated the Torontos at lacrosse, 4 to 3, and Cornwall defeated Ottawa, 5 to 1.

A brakeman named Russell was fatally injured at Winnipeg while coupling cars.

Rain When Wanted.

CANTON, Ohio, July 3.—Rain did not fall as predicted by Frank Melbourne, who claims to bring it at will through the aid of an invention. Monday evening there was quite a heavy downpour, and Melbourne claims it was of his bringing. He says he began operating the apparatus on Sunday morning, expecting rain yesterday, but the atmospheric conditions were more favorable than he anticipated, and it came ahead of calculations. The date of the next experiment is set for July 11. Last evening it commenced to sprinkle slowly. The indications are that it will grow to a goodsized rain.

CITY COUNCIL.

Special Meeting Called to Consider Redistribution of Wards.

The City Council met last evening at the usual hour. Present Mayor Grant in the chair, and Ald. Holland, Hunter, Robertson, McKillican, Richards and Coughlan.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From A. L. Belyea, acknowledging receipt of letter from city clerk, notifying him of his appointment as Police Magistrate, and saying that he had made application to the Government to be appointed a Justice of the Peace, in accordance with the act, but as there was only one member of the Government in the city he could not act in the matter until the return of his colleagues. The appointment would be brought up as soon as the other members returned.—Received and filed.

From J. G. Tiarks, asking that the council put gravel on the road and have a sidewalk laid on Boyd street.—Received and referred to street committee.

From McHenry & Billinghearst, calling attention to the unhealthy condition of the drain back of their premises, and asking to have it remedied.—Referred to the sanitary committee with power to report.

From A. Campbell Reddie, acknowledging receipt of copy of city by-laws.—Received and filed.

From John T. Sherborne, asking to have water laid to his residence.—Referred to water committee and commissioner.

From H. M. Yates, giving information with reference to the old French hospital.—Received and filed.

From His Lordship Bishop Lemmens, with reference to the boundaries of Ross Bay cemetery.—Referred to cemetery committee.

From H. F. Smith, Kamloops, asking to be appointed as caretaker of the home for the indigent poor.—Received and laid on the table.

From the Mount Royal Milling Co., Montreal, with reference to taking over of city bonds in lieu of cash, by Mr. Hall.—Referred to finance committee.

From Dalby, Ballantine & Claxton, enclosing a petition from the residents of Tolmie Avenue, asking that the city take over the said avenue, and have it improved and made fit for traffic, as it was almost impassible now.—Referred to street committee.

REPORTS.

Henry M. Sheppard, superintendent of police, submitted his report for June which was adopted.

City Clerk reported accounts amounting to $6,309.62.—Referred to finance committee to be paid if found correct.

BY-LAWS.

By-law to regulate the redistribution of wards was read a first time and passed.

Ald. Holland gave notice of motion to introduce a by-law to sell the gravel pit and apply the proceeds to the city funds.

Ald. Holland gave notice of motion to amend the council by-laws of 1888.

Ald. Coughlan's motion to introduce by-law to sell the Deluge engine house was read a first time and passed.

Ald. Richards, seconded by Ald. Coughlan, moved that all officers of the corporation be granted their usual leave of absence as they can be spared.—Carried.

Report of the street committee was read and adopted.

Ald. McKillican moved, seconded by Ald. Coughlan, that a special meeting of the council be called for next Tuesday evening to consider the redistribution of the wards of the city.—Carried.

Council then adjourned.

Clews' Financial Review.

NEW YORK, June 27, 1891.—Wall street is still in an expectant mood, but the good things hoped for fail to put in an appearance. There is little the matter with the condition; the main trouble appears to be in the lack of buyers; and why they are not forthcoming is not altogether an agreeable question for contemplation. It is ordinarily taken for granted that, when things are on all sides conceded to be cheap and yet nobody wants them, the trouble is to be attributed to the buyers. And in this case it is not at all unreasonable to suppose that there may be an inundation, something that is preventing people from availing themselves of profits from a prospective improvement in the intrinsic value of stocks. When it is considered that, no more than eight months ago, Wall street was visited by a cyclone that swept away every vestage of speculative margins and left many operations without the means of recovering the wherewith to operate, it does seem rather sanguine to expect that already the places of these disabled operators should have been fettled by a new contingent of well equipped buyers. Ordinarily, the bond market is regarded as affording a good criterion of what may be expected in the share market; and it is sound reasoning, when we find nobody wanting unexceptionable mortgages yielding 4 to 5 per cent. on their market value, to conclude that there is a scarcity in funds sinking investment; and the reasons that make money scarce for investment are likely to make it still more so for speculation. This obstacle to buying is the more important when, as in the present case, it applies not only to our own market but also to the foreign markets that deal in our securities. And it is further to be considered that the market is still struggling against an extra supply of stock, which was in part sent here pending last Fall's break in the foreign markets and in part contributed by the large local realizing on both investment and speculative holdings at about the same time.

These factors are not cited as amounting to a really insurmountable obstacle to any advance in prices in the comparatively early future, but rather as largely explaining the past and present quiet of the market and as suggesting reasons for moderate expectation for possibly some time to come; it would be a mistake to infer from them that the promised abundant harvest, the comparative ease in money, the relatively strong condition of the bank reserves, and the probable return of large amounts of gold from Europe within the next three months, will have no effect upon the demand for stocks during the Summer and Fall months. Such contributions to the national wealth and to the operations of trade as must come from an extraordinary harvest cannot fail to materially augment the funds seeking investment and to swell the floating balances that constitute an important part of the resources that contribute to transient speculation. It is not impossible that these reinforcements may suffice to compensate for the loss of speculative means above referred to.

A Famous Law Suit.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A Versailles, Ky., special says the Jury in the famous Bedford Megibber bull suit brought in a verdict late Monday night giving Megibber's heirs $9000 without interest. The case has been in the Kentucky courts for twenty years and the litigation has cost nearly $50,000. It is over the sale of a blooded bull, which did not turn out as warranted. Many of Kentucky's most distinguished jurists have been engaged as counsel on one side or the other. In this last trial Senator Carlisle was chief counsel for Megibber and Senator Blackburn for Bedford.

Shot by His Son.

SARATOGA, July 3.—Morgan B. Coleman, 70 years old, living in the neighborhood of Fort Ann, was shot and killed on Sunday by his son Frank. The boy was in hiding to shoot crows, which were pulling corn in the garden. Just as he had his aim on a crow and pulled the trigger of his gun, his father stepped from behind an outbuilding and received the charge in his body.

The President Appoints.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The President to-day appointed T. Snowden, of Pennsylvania, minister to Greece, Roumania and Servia; Romuldo Paipeco, of California, minister to Guatemala and Honduras; Henry L. Arnold, of New York, U. S. Consul at Clifton, Ont.; Richard Lambert, of California, U. S. Consul at Mazatlan, Mexico.

Fatal Collision.

CINCINNATI, July 3.—A collision occurred at 5 o'clock this morning between a passenger and freight train near Ravenna, Ohio. The wreck caught fire and two sleepers and a coach were burned. Eighteen persons are known to have been killed, either by the collision or by the burning of the passenger train.

A Young Lady Suicides.

CLEVELAND, July 3—Miss Ollie Caulfield, daughter of A. T. Caulfield, a wealthy contractor, disappeared to-day and her parents believe that she has killed herself. She is 17 years of age, well educated and a good musician. On May 29th she was to have been married to Walter Calhoun, but on May 27th he died.

Yellow Fever in the South.

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—Dr. Granville, who contracted yellow fever at the quarantine station, is not expected to recover. Dr. Carter who attended him is also down, and has telegraphed to Washington for surgeons to take their places.

Villard in Retirement.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Henry Villard did not come to his office yesterday, and it was said there that he wouldn't be down until next Monday. His seclusion is declared to be solely for the purpose of rest.

Mothers!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW,
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when glad Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the DRAGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE POLITICAL CORRUPTION.

Sir John Macdonald's estate outside of his residence is valued at $90,000. His railroad policy enriched many, but he evidently was content to let others reap the benefit, while he enjoyed the pleasures of power, to retain which he at times resorted to the tricks of a wily politician. When Sir John was undergoing the severest ordeal of his life, the investigation of the Pacific railway scandal, and hot charges of personal corruption were preferred against him, he was equal to all emergencies. A correspondent declares that he never witnessed a more dramatic scene than when, repelling the accusations in the House of Commons at Ottawa, Sir John stepped in front of his desk and, holding out his hands, palms upward, toward the Opposition benches, exclaimed with a dramatic force that would have been no discredit to Booth, "These hands are clean." The effect was electrical. Even some of his political opponents joined in the applause.

"These hands are clean!" Sir JOHN is now in the "undiscovered country," and we are not inclined to resurrect his memory in relation to some of his pecuniary-politico transactions, and we submit that his political friends should permit him to rest in peace. There is a difference, it is true, between money used to secure political ends, and that used to meet private ends. The first is rated as venial, the second as venal. In the case in hand, however, the shallowest moralist does not need to be told that though Sir JOHN himself was venial, he made use of venality to secure his ends, availed himself of an instinct in men which it was his duty to reprobate rather than encourage. Sir JOHN'S position was no more defensible than would be that of a man who had robbed a stage coach and contributed the proceeds to a theological seminary. It is all very well to draw a distinction between Walpoleism and the absconding bank cashier, but of the two classes of crime Walpoleism is infinitely the worst. And after all why is not Walpoleism as venal as "holding up" a stage coach? The stage robber plys his vocation as a means of living. For aught the outside world may know his sole motive is to secure funds enough to enable him to engage in legitimate business. Can any more be said of the politician who buys votes? Can as much be said? What is the object of the man who buys votes? To obtain power. May we suppose that the man who employs dishonest methods to obtain power is an honest man? Is that the kind of a man we should apotheosize? What need has a man for millions who has power? Riches await his command. Lust for power is as immoral as lust for gold.

TEACHERS IN CONVENTION.

The meeting of the teachers in Toronto, which will be attended by a number of the profession from British Columbia, will be an important gathering, and it suggests the idea of a conference of the "ministers of education." Mr. ROSSON, in whose keeping the educational interests of British Columbia are placed, is now in Ontario, and it ought not to be difficult to arrange for such a conference. If teachers may learn of each other, why not ministers? Of the teachers' convention the Globe says:

"While the National Educational Association is in session in Toronto in July there will be a meeting held at the instance of the Minister of Education for the purpose of organizing a Dominion Association of Teachers. The time chosen is opportune, and it is probable that the proposed association will greatly serve the interests of education throughout the Dominion. The fact that each Province makes its own educational laws does not diminish the usefulness of such an association, though it will doubtless mould its form, which will be different from that of the Provincial associations. The delegates will be men and women who are teaching under different systems, with different text books, with different programmes of study. It will follow that they will talk less about details and more about those broad general principles which underlie all systems. They will also learn from one another. The result of the meeting may be that Quebec may borrow an educational method or a text book from Ontario, or Ontario from Quebec, just as we have already to thank New Brunswick for an excellent series of bi-lingual readers. The meetings will also tend to broaden the sympathies of the teachers, and to add to their fund of knowledge concerning the people and the resources of their common country; and the children whose minds they help to mould will receive the benefit of this liberalizing influence. Mr. Ross is always on the lookout for opportunities of serving the schools of Ontario. He is a strong believer in the benefit of contact of mind with mind, and on previous occasions he has been the means of bringing together the representatives of educational interests with the happiest results."

THE H.B. RAILWAY.

What has happened that the Government has at last concluded to subsidize the Hudson Bay railway? If there less ice in Hudson Bay than there was a few years ago? Within recent recollection the Government sent an expedition to report on the feasibility of navigating Hudsons Bay during summer, and the report was unfavorable. The navigable season, according to the report, was confined to less than two months, and was uncertain and dangerous, even during that limited time, and it was further discovered that the navigable season on the bay was too early to allow the movement of wheat the same year it was harvested. In the face of a report so unfavorable as this it should seem that the Government would scarcely assist the Hudson Bay railway enterprise. Government assistance, in fact, in the circumstances, is simply a flagrant throwing away of the people's money. There is not the slightest chance of the Hudsons Bay railway proving a success, and if the object in securing Government aid is for the purpose of inducing English capital to take hold of the scheme, the Government may be legitimately charged with conniving at fraud. If subsidizing such enterprises as the H.B. railway is the kind of economy the Government proposes, the sooner the Government is ousted the better for the country. If it is disloyal to preach unrestricted reciprocity, it is a crime to donate public funds to a coterie of railway speculators.

TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT.

The Mail speaks of Mr. FOSTER'S proposal to economize as a good intention, "hopes for his sake that it will not, one of these fine days, rise in judgment against him." "If," continues the Mail, "anything in the way of economy is to be done it will have to be something radical. That the saving will be effected in the Railway Department, to which Mr. CHAPLEAU is shortly to move in order to enjoy the pleasures of patronage, it is too much to expect. Good work, however, might be done in the Public Works Department, which has been exceedingly active of late; so also might there be reductions in the cost of legislative and civil Government generally. But we cannot hope to save in the end, if the provinces, which look so steadily to the Dominion for help, are to keep their eyes on the treasury and are to expend with their old-time liberality." The Mail next points out that "since Confederation Canada has assumed provincial debts, or made allowances, to the extent of $100,000,000, which means an additional federal outlay of $4,000,000 a year. The transferences now proposed do not aggregate so large a sum; but they mean a great deal; and the trouble is that if the Dominion accepts them it will only open the door wide for still greater demands. It stands to reason that when Local Governments know that their extravagance will react not upon themselves, but upon the Dominion chest, they will continue their generous policy and turn to the treasury, as of old, for relief. Sir RICHARD CARTWRIGHT mentioned in his speech on Tuesday that we have far too much governmental machinery for our people. The frequent references to Ottawa for more money is proof enough of this. Sir RICHARD, with all of his alleged shortcomings, seems to have a pretty good idea of one of the many causes which are sapping the life blood of Canada. Too much government. In the Eastern Provinces we find them water-logged, as it were with government. "A court, says the Mail, "Ministry, Senate and Legislature for Prince Edward Island, with a population less than that of the city of Toronto, is preposterous. There ought to be in the Eastern Provinces a consolidation with a view to the establishment of one strong Government out of the three now existing. It is perhaps a pity that Maritime union, contemplated as it was in the sixties, did not precede Confederation. With the multiplicity of Governments have come duplications of public services. Immigration is attended to by a double set of officials; agricultural experiments are conducted by both federal and local powers; railways are promoted and subsidized by the two authorities; and, above all, we have a double franchise."

Here is a pretty mess and an expensive one at that. Less government the fewer rapacious politicians there will be to feed. Still with the example of the States before us, together with the geography of Canada, the situation cannot much be wondered at. The remedy seems to be if we must have so much government, that the different provinces should be more nearly sovereign. If Canada must ape the States, let it make a job of it by knocking in the head of the paternalistic machine at Ottawa. If the system in the States is a success, it is owing to State sovereignty, and not to the sapiency of the Washington Government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

After all it is very easy to govern British Columbia. Mr. VERNON has been managing all the departments for several weeks, and has found time to go fishing.

The Toronto Telegram says: "Half the evidence so far brought out in the McGREEVY enquiry cannot be true, or there are officials and politicians at Ottawa whose post office address should be "The Penitentiary, Kingston, Ont." On the same question the Victoria Colonist says: "0 0 0 0 0"

The Minister of Justice has introduced a bill empowering the Governor in council to transfer, without pecuniary consideration to the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island, or any or either of them, all the interest of Her Majesty in the right of Canada in the foreshore and bed of every or any stream, river, lake, harbor, bay, open sea, or other territorial waters of Canada, or in any portion or parcels thereof, within the respective limits of such provinces, together with all gold and silver in any such foreshore or bed; and thereupon every interest which Her Majesty in the right of Canada now has therein shall be vested in the Provincial Government to which any transfer is made under the provisions of this act, subject to certain limitations and conditions.

The Mail says: "The developments become daily more startling. It is difficult to see McGREEVY'S way out, and certainly LANGEVIN'S position is heavily clouded. His defence, it is said, is to be based partly upon the character of the chief witness. If some of the letters have been forged all have not, but damaging verbal testimony may be discredited in so far as it is not supported at all by authentic documents, for the witness who has turned Queen's evidence, is said to bear a bad character. A few weeks, possibly a few days, will see the defence begun, but in the meanwhile CHAPLEAU, who took so much interest in the proceedings at first, has ceased his attendance upon the committee. He apparently is satisfied LANGEVIN will have to go out of the Government. It is obvious he is preparing for the minister's departure and for radical cabinet changes when the session ends. If the Government pulls through the session, as apparently it will do unless a mistake be made in its treatment of the McGREEVY affair, it will have to fight for its life at both elections. Both sides look for results from these contests, as witness the care with which franchise lists are being revised."

Speaking of the revelations made before the committee on privileges and elections yesterday the Globe says: "Murphy's story is the most startling chapter yet produced in this amazing scandal. It would be unfair to regard it as conclusive of Sir Hector's guilt. He and his witnesses have still to be examined, and they may succeed in putting a different face upon the matter, but it will not do for Sir Hector to plead, as some of his newspapers are doing, that though he may have accepted money in large sums from those contractors, he did not know they and his bosom friends Thomas McGreevy were engaged in gigantic frauds carried on through the agency of his own department. In the Pacific scandal Sir John Macdonald's saving clause was that Sir H. Allen got nothing for his contributions. In the present case it was demonstrated that the contributors were allowed to rob the treasury in connection with every single work which they had in hand. In order, therefore, to establish his innocence of any participation in these scandals, Sir Hector must show that he never received a cent from Larkin & Co. Nothing else will suffice, and even then he will be obliged to confess to the grossest neglect of duty in having permitted wholesale robberies to take place over a period of years in connection with the department of which he is the head."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PORT SIMPSON, B. C.

THE LIVERPOOL OF THE PACIFIC.

Terminus of the projected Railways, the Pacific, Peace River and Hudson Bay and the Manitoba Northwestern Railways.

A limited number of Lots have been placed on the market, including some choice water front at bottom figures, giving everyone an opportunity to purchase.

The Government is now surveying large tracts of farming land tributary to Port Simpson. With the prospective railway project, this affords to investors the same opportunity Vancouver did a few years ago. Only a limited number of Water Front and City Lots will be sold at the present prices.

$100 EACH—$20 DOWN AND $10 PER MONTH—$100 EACH

THE COMING CITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Being situated about 400 miles north of Vancouver on the Mainland, and directly on the Pacific Ocean, thus dispensing with the excessive towage rates charged on sailing vessels going to Seattle and other Sound ports, and is 600 miles shorter to China and Japan than any other port on the coast.

It is the only harbor north of Vancouver, and has been recommended to the Government by Admiral Seymour as a naval station.

The climate is milder in winter than Victoria, owing to the warm trade winds which strike this point while in summer it enjoys the refreshing breeze of the Pacific.

Remember this Port was recommended by the Mackenzie Government as the Terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Strawberry Festival.

A strawberry festival was held at Victoria West last evening in aid of St. Savior's Church. A splendid programme was presented during the evening by the talent of the new church. The hall was well filled and all enjoyed themselves.

Going South.

The ss. Umatilla sailed to-day for San Francisco. She took from this port 60 tons of sugar, 15 tons of ice and the following passengers: Wm. Blair, R. Gillis, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. McAdams, Mrs. A. C. Renwick, Mrs Sommer and two children.

Port Angeles Invites.

Mayor Grant and the aldermen have received invitations from the citizens of Port Angeles to participate in the celebration of Independence Day, and we believe but for prior arrangements, some of our civic fathers would feel impelled to visit the "Port of Angels" to-morrow.

July 4th Celebration.

On July 2nd, 3rd and 4th, the Puget Sound & Alaska ss. Co.'s steamer City of Kingston will sell tickets from here to all Puget Sound points and to Portland, Or., at one fare for round trip, good until July 6th and 7th. Call at 82 Government street, or, C.P.N. Co.'s office, for tickets and staterooms. 2t

Attempted Burglary.

Last evening about midnight, Mrs. Thos. Ellis of 72 Princess Avenue, was awakened by the noise made by someone trying to get into her window. She woke her husband, who quickly jumped up, but was unable to catch the would be burglar as he jumped back and ran up the street. This is the second attempt of the kind made inside of a few weeks on Princess Avenue.

Zambesi Sails To-Night.

The steamship Zambesi, of the Upton line of steamers, running between Victoria and China will sail this evening. She came in from Departure Bay this morning where she took on 500 tons of coal to last her her passage. Her cargo consists of 400 tons of flour, 700,000 feet of lumber and several hundred tons of general merchandize. She will also take eight saloon passengers from Victoria.

New Gorge Road Church.

At a meeting of the Gorge Road Methodist Church held last evening, Mr. Thomas Hooper, the architect, presented three rough sketches for a new church. The trustees selected one which provides for a brick building of Romanesque style with square tower. It would seat about 800 persons and cost about $15,000. A complete plan of the building will be presented to the trustees next Thursday evening.

Broke Her Propeller.

Misfortune has seemed to follow the City of Seattle ever since she has been on the Pacific coast. When she first arrived, a few months ago, she had to be thoroughly overhauled, and ever since then she has been nearly half her time in the hospital. Word reached here last night that she had broken her new propeller that was fitted a short time ago, and that she would be brought around to Esquimalt to go into the dry dock to have a new one put on.

A Victorian's Success.

Mr. W. J. H. Holmes, son of Col. Holmes of C Battery, has distinguished himself at the Royal Military College In the Kingston News' report of the late examination we fine the following mention of his success

Diplomas with honors. — Sergeant Holmes, distinguished in military engineering, artillery, theoretical and practical, practical geometry and engineering drawing, free hand drawing and paleting, civil engineering, drills exercises, N.C.O. discipline.

The Alaska Route.

The steamer Queen of the Pacific, Captain Carroll, arrived from Alaska this morning after a very pleasant trip through northern waters. She brought no news of a startling character and the Alaska papers that she brought down contained nothing of interest. The canneries are all getting ready to start operations.

The City of Topeka arrived from the Sound early this morning and left at 1 o'clock for Alaska. She had a number of excursionists and a large quantity of freight.

Sugar, Flour and Butter.

In small tubs, cheaper than ever, at Wm. Eckert's, 106 Yates street.

Go to Tom Graham's.

Gas Fixtures.

Braden & Stamford have just imported a fine lot of gas fixtures which every one should see before going elsewhere.

All the Goods Recovered.

On Wednesday evening two rooms at the Driard House were ransacked and a quantity of clothing, razors and other toilet articles stolen. From the room first entered the thief took a lot of clothing which could not have been good enough for him, as he left them in the next room. From the last room he took clothes, etc. Sergts. Walker and Hawton went to work in the case and succeeded in locating the thief at the half-way house, Esquimalt road. He had the stolen clothes on and the other missing articles in his possession.

The Fairhaven Excursion on 4th of July.

The favorite and magnificent steamer Olympian will leave Turner, Beeton & Co's wharf at 8 a.m. for Fairhaven and will be back before midnight, leaving Fairhaven at 7:30 p.m. The fare for the round trip will be $2.50. The citizens of Sehome, Whatcom and Fairhaven will celebrate the event in grand style and everything will be done to give visitors a pleasant time. This will be the only boat for Fairhaven from Victoria on the 4th and everybody should take advantage of the cheap rate. Full band will oe on board. Persons intending to go should purchase their tickets to-day at Union Pacific office, 100 Government street.

The Cort Case Settled.

The sensational case between John Cort, the theatrical man, and his wife in the Seattle courts, has been settled, if not amicably, at least in a way that takes it out of the hands of the court, so, for the time at least, it will not be decided if the couple were ever legally married. Just before the close of the case, it was agreed between the two, with the consent of the judge, that the two children should be placed under the charge of John Cort's married sister, and that both the father and mother should have the privilege of visiting them. Cort is to support them, and also pay his wife $40 per month for her support. The suit was not dismissed, but continued for one year.

Officers and Crew Discharged.

There has been more or less trouble on board the rice ship Thermopylæ ever since she arrived in port, and it has finally culminated in everybody belonging to her being discharged from the captain to the cook. The Mount Royal Mills, which is the owner of the vessel, made application yesterday to have Captaim Wilson and Mate Gedes releived of their command because of their wilful disregard of their duties. Collector Milne investigated the matter and promptly discharged the two officers from the ship and further examinations will be made in their cases to see if their licenses as master and mate should not be taken away from them. Captain J. R. Winchester, of Nova Scotia, has been placed in charge by ner owners and will in the future have command of her. This afternoon the crew will be paid off and discharged as they appear to be of a similar calibre to that of the captain and mate.

At the Police Court.

The usual monotony of the police court was broken this morning by the appearance of Mr. R. P Rithet, in the case of Captain Wise, charged with an assault on a Chinaman. Mr. Rithet appeared for the prisoner, and acquitted himself very creditably. The facts of the case are very simple. Captain Wise, as superintendent of the outer wharf, was attempting to drive some Chinamen from the wharf while some emigrant Chinamen were being transferred from the steamship Batavia to the warehouse. He had much trouble with them and finally losing his temper struck one, out of which the charge grew. Mr. Rithet developed quite a faculty in confusing the Celestial witnesses for the prosecution and making them contradict themselves and would likely have won his case if he had not put his client Captain Wise on the stand. The captain acknowledged the assault, but tried to justify himself on the ground that the Chinaman had no business on the wharf, and was there for no good, but the court could not see that that gave him the right even though he was provoked to the extreme. At first the defence was determined to to appeal the case, but finally consented to pay the fine of $20.

Home from Clinton.

Mr. J. C. Hayes reached home Wednesday night, after an extended trip through the Chilcotin country. He reports that mining is progressing very favorably up there this year. The crops are looking well, and the ranchers, as a consequence, are in the best of spirits. Especially around Clinton are the prospects good, and the stock is in excellent condition. Mr. Hayes brought down with him a number of fine horses.

Another Convenience.

As time goes on the accommodations at Campbell's corner continue to increase and now almost any information can be obtained there. This morning Frank added another convenience to his long list by putting up a large clock about four feet high. It is a very handsome one being prettily made and decorated with numerous elaborately painted advertisements. On the face is a picture of the proprietor of the corner. The clock strikes every five minutes when three rolls of ads. turn around showing the advertisements for different firms. On one of the rolls is the advertisement of the C.P.N. Company giving the hours of arrival and departure of different steamers.

Customs Collections for the Year.

Collector of Customs Milne, of Victoria, has prepared the following comparative table showing the customs collections for the past fiscal year, ending June 30, and also for the year previous. The figures justify in every way the claim that Victoria is increasing as a port of entry, as the increase in collections for the past year exceed by about 19 per cent. those of the previous year. This is not only true of the aggregate, but with two exceptions each corresponding month shows large increase. The customs authorities hope that this fine showing may direct the attention of "the powers that be" to the need of Victoria for a suitable and much needed customs building.

Has the University Act Lapsed?

If the opinion expressed by a member of the Senate of the University is correct, the powers of the Senate under the University Act of 1891 have lapsed, and nothing further can be done until the legislature shall have restored the powers. Section 12 of the act says:

"The first meeting of the Senate shall be held within one month after the first regular election by convocation under this act, in the year in which this act shall become law; and such first meeting shall be at the call of the Chancellor by the University."

Section 17 of the same act says:

"No question shall be decided at any meeting unless at least nine members of the Senate are present; nor shall any meeting be legal unless held at the time and convened in the manner provided for by this act or by statute of the Senate."

The convocation met on the second day of June and elected a certain number of senators from their body. The Chancellor, Dr. Powell, issued notices convening a meeting of the Senate for the second of the present month, at 11 o'clock—nine members being necessary for a quorum. At the hour appointed the following Senators attended: The Chancellor, Mr. Speaker Higgins, Mayor Grant and Rev. Dr. McLeod. A quorum not being in attendance, no meeting was held, and it is understood that several senators have since notified Chancellor Powell that they will decline to exercise their franchise until the legislation which they deem to be necessary has been had.

Unbearable Pain.

Dear Sirs,—I suffered for three days very severely from Summer Complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me.

THEIR ANNUAL REPORT.

THE BOARD OF TRADE HOLD THEIR ANNUAL MEETING.

Matters of Importance to Victoria and the Province Mentioned — Recommendations in the Prosecution of Work in all Branches of Trade and Commerce.

The annual general meeting of the B. C. Board of Trade was held this afternoon with President Ward in the chair, and a large number of members present. The minutes of the last meeting having been read, the report of the committee of the council was presented. The report is the largest ever presented covering a great many subjects. The following is a brief outline of it.

THE COUNCIL'S REPORT.

The committee of the council of the board presented their annual report, which stated that at the commencement of the fiscal year there were 97 members, which during the past twelve months had increased to 136. Four of the old members had resigned, and one removed by death, leaving the present number of active members at 131

During the period under review six general meetings of the board, 17 meetings of the council, and nine committee meetings were held, being 13 in excess of the number held during the preceding twelve months. The attendance at the general meetings was 87 per cent better than during 1889-90 and the committee anticipate that with the rapidly increasing business of the board the interest shown will expand.

The death of the late Jas. Fell is mentioned, along with the fact of G. Leiser's election in Mr. Fell's place on the council.

CHINA-JAPAN MAIL S.S. SERVICE.

The board has continued to press the claims of the port upon the C.P.R., for the calling here of their China and mail steamships and the landing of mails, passengers, and freight. The president's interview with Mr. Van Horne re the calling of the steamers, as previously published, is mentioned. Within the past eighteen months Victoria merchants have contributed $84,650 as freight on 7000 tons merchandise carried by ships running in connection with the C.P.R., and as the port is a contributor to the Dominion revenue of about $1,000,000 annually (from which revenue a subsidy is granted yearly to the C.P.R. steamers) Victoria's just claims calls for more than ordinary comment and should convince the C.P.R. Company that any further indifference thereto cannot but be resented. The committee understood that the financial result to the Upton line of steamers had so far been satisfactory and hoped sufficient will be forthcoming in the future to ensure the continuance of the service.

To illustrate the facilities existing at this port for the accommodation of ocean steamships the company pointed out that the steamship Partha, drawing 22 feet, entered and docked at extremely low tide, the steamship Costa Rica drawing 24 feet being likewise accommodated. The draught of the C.P.R. steamers from China and Japan as officially reported was as follows: Empress of India, 24 feet, Empress of Japan, 24 feet. The steamers were not docked at the outer wharf as the masters had not received authority from the C.P.R. Co.

Harbor—The regular estimates recently passed by the Dominion Government for the improvement of Victoria harbor are quite inadequate for any practical improvement to be effected. The committee directed the earnest attention of the new council to the question of enlarging the harbor facilities and proposed that a well defined scheme be prepared towards the accomplishment of the work.

Telegraphs—The urgency of an alternate line to connect with the American systems has been kept before the Dominion Government, and the numerous complaints of the public informed the subject of correspondence with the superintendent of the C.P.R. Company's system but the service cannot be said to be entirely satisfactory. The request of the board now under consideration of the Superintendent of Government Telegraphs for the wiring of information from Bonilla Point daily, would, if carried out, prove of great general value.

Lights, beacons and buoys.—The question of lighting and buoying the northern section of the coast line of the province has at last received the attention of the Government, Mr. Anderson, a Government engineer, having been sent out from Ottawa to look into the requests of the board and carry out some of the suggestions. Mr. Anderson's courtesy and attention were duly appreciated.

It is to be earnestly hoped that the Imperial Government when considering this question will not only speedily arrange that the sealing industry can in the future be proceeded with untrammelled, but will also recompense those people who in the past have had their property seized and the loss to be suffered by the stoppage of sealing in the middle of the hunting season.

RAILWAYS.

The S. & O. Railway will be completed this year and in consequence a much larger area of wheat and cereals will be cultivated in the rich agricultural districts of Vernon and Enderby. The Nelson & Sproats Landing Railway runs through a rich mining district which has a great future before it

Charters were granted to 13 railways and six tram lines during the last session of the Legislative Assembly. The Victoria & North American Railway Company for building a line from Victoria to Beecher Bay, several for roads through the fertile valley of the Fraser and the Cariboo Railway, which if constructed will open up rich gold fields.

The committee considered it time that the railway system of the Island extended northward and trusted that the Provincial Government would take steps at its next session to carry out this important work.

Fisheries.—Operations at the salmon canneries developed results almost as large as those during the previous year the aggregate pack reaching 409,464 cases but there was a considerable falling off in the prices. This is accounted for by the competition of the Alaska fish which are inferior to the British Columbia salmon but is procurable in larger quantities, unskilled labor is more readily obtainable and the canners moreover are not hampered with oppressive and useless regulations. They are consequently able to market their pack at a lower cost than the British Columbia article. It is regretted that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries could not find it convenient to visit the Province to enquire into the general working of the salmon industry. It is also to be regretted that a matter so pregnant with interest to the leading industry of the Province should be permitted to continue in the same unsatisfactory condition as referred to in the Board's last annual report. Mr. Wilmot's report to the Government on the industry was full of inaccuracies and consequently of no value, the views being obtained during a visit of two days on the Fraser. The committee learns that there is now a disposition at Ottawa to act upon the suggestion for a board of commissioners at an early date, and if this should prove to be the case, there is every reason to hope for a fair and impartial adjustment of the differences.

Deep Sea Fisheries.—It is to be regretted that the development of these fisheries have been so long retarded, and it is to be hoped that when the new Dominion Government steamer is built the Sir James Douglas will be used for deep sea surveys in connection with these fisheries.

Graving Dock.—The demand for the use of the dry dock is fast increasing, and the urgency for the construction of another dry dock is amply demonstrated. Twenty-eight vessels were docked during the year, with an aggregate tonnage of 39,385. A desirable site would be adjoining the present one.

The importance of the mines, lumber industry, fruit growing, and manufactures was touched upon in a general way. The survey parties sent out by the Government were complimented on the valuable information obtained.

The committee recommended that the request of the London Chambers of Commerce for the board to appoint a delegate to the second congress of the Chamber of Commerce of the Empire be complied with.

The board's request for the appointment of a German consulate had been granted by the appointment of Mr. Carl Lowenburg.

The importance of the Nicaragua canal to British Columbia, as it will make a trip from England to Victoria 7000 miles shorter is also mentioned.

The new by-laws are presented with the report along with other matters relating to immigration, the importance of sending exhibits to the world's fair, the census and other matters of trade and commerce.

The financial report shows a gain of $1,205.12 for the 12 months just ended.

COLONEL OF THE FOURTH.

A STORY OF THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

By Bernard Bigby, Author of "Loyal at Last," "My Lady Fantastic," "Ellen's Great Secret," "Fell Among Thieves," Etc., Etc.

Conversation at the table flowed freely, but Besant could not but observe that when brief allusion was made to the fall of Fort Donelson—not by Frank, you may be sure—her proud nostrils seemed to dilate and a decidedly dangerous expression glittered in Miss Lascelles' splendid dark eyes. Would that glance ever soften, he thought, if Charlie Fulton whispered in those exquisite ears a tale of sweet devotion? There must be some dove-like softness in a nature like hers, Frank mused, notwithstanding that quivering lip and proud disdain.

But Frank's nerves were not of steel nor his youthful vigor unconquerable by fatigue and suffering, so as soon as the repast was ended he begged to be permitted to retire, as his journey must be resumed at early dawn.

Utterly wornout, he sank on his bed, without removing more of his clothes than his borrowed coat, and fell into a profound slumber.

For hours he slept.

Was it a dream that Mary Lascelles, with her rustling dress of scarlet trimmed with snowy miniver, was standing over him?

He started fitfully, and woke.

No, it was no dream. In reality she stood beside him, holding a lamp in her hand which threw its rays across the spacious room.

"You must go," she said, speaking in anxious haste. "Go at once, without one word of explanation. Your uniform and arms are here. Dress as quickly as you can, for moments are precious. You will find me in the garden below awaiting you."

And before he could speak one word of reply, the fair vision had glided from the room.

Had these been less stirring times, he might have thought the whole scene the phantasy of a over-tired brain, but a soldier's life had rendered him quick to cast off the lethargy of sleep, and in an instant he had his faculties about him.

"I am here," came the silvery tones of a woman's voice, as he stepped from the broad porch to the garden walk.

"This is a sudden alarm, Miss Lascelles," he said, as he joined her under the gloomy shadow of a big magnolia.

"But none the less necessitous," she replied; "ask me not how I know it, Frank Besant, but already your enemies and my friends—alas, the cruel bitterness of it—are closing around you."

"But, surely, when he remembers the humane errand I came on your grandfather's protection would be afforded me."

"Yes, and he thinks it would be all-sufficient, but I know better."

"You are very, very good to me," the young man sighed, softly.

"Ah, you have found that out. It is hard for a woman to keep a secret like mine."

Her voice trembled as she spoke, while Frank felt a dull sense of shame and dread creep over him. Surely there could be but one meaning to her words. He knew not what to reply.

"I shall never be able to do enough to show my gratitude," he said, lamely.

"Never!" was the passionate reply.

"Who knows?" the young soldier ventured. "The fortunes of war are various, and it may be my turn to help you when next we meet."

"Help me! You help me! God keep me from your help! You have helped me now, Frank Besant, to forget the holy cause that should absorb my very soul, to barter my sense of duty to my fatherland for an unwomanly interest in one who comes with sword and fire to waste my country. But hark!" she cried, suddenly seizing his hand in both of hers, "surely that is the sound of horses' hoofs? Away, down yonder path among the apple-trees! It will bring you to the Nashville pike. Here in this basket is food and wine; take it, and hurry; but, oh, one word before you go. If in the time to come—"

But horsemen were coming at furious speed along the shadowed avenue, and the girl's injunction was never uttered; for, with a bound, Frank dashed to the path of freedom, and ran stumbling through the darkness to the distant highway.

The stars of another night were glimmering in the heavens, when, footsore and weary, he reached the fair city, whose beautiful streets had been of late so often trodden by friend and foe.

CHAPTER X.

IN THE TOILS.

But hark! Louder sounds the thundering storm of battle. From far and wide the mailed clans are gathering for the fierce struggle that shall bathe so many fields in blood. The South is wild with the alarms of war. Johnston has marshaled his troops at Corinth, where Beauregard has concentrated forces. Bragg has come from Florida, Polk from the Mississippi, and Price and Van Dorn are marching at the head of thirty thousand men from Arkansas.

And the Northern heroes muster for the fray by thousands. Sherman has joined the Tennessee expedition, Buell is hurrying from Nashville, and Smith, with forty thousand soldiers and seventy transports, has pitched his tents at Pittsburgh Landing, an obscure spot, whose name ere long shall darken the page of history; and Grant is there, a shadowy picture in the back-ground at first, but soon to take the leadership of that vast array. Like two huge, angry monsters, those great armies lie, but thirty miles apart.

On a plateau, two miles from the Landing, stood a log meeting-house, known as Shiloh Church, which has given its name to the bloody battle fought near its peaceful walls.

Smith was in the throes of death, and Grant was in command, with Sherman on his staunch right hand, while on the other side of the river Buell with forty thousand men was but a few miles distant.

And Beauregard and Johnston at Corinth knew that their only hope was to crush Grant's army before Buell could reach it.

On the third of April the Southern host stole noiselessly from their strongholds, and on the fifth camped on the wet ground, without fires, at a spot scarce a mile from the Federal pickets.

At dawn on Sunday morning, while Grant, little suspecting the danger that threatened him, had crossed the river to consult Buell, the storm burst; for hardly had the pall of night lifted than from the woods poured forth the Southern hosts on the astounded pickets.

At eight o'clock Grant returned to gaze with sadness on a battle almost lost, and which, but for Sherman's gallant bearing, would have been an absolute rout.

At noon the entire Federal army had been driven from their camp, and were crowded into a space of little more than four hundred acres on the verge of the bluff overlooking the Landing, towards which they were rushing in wild confusion.

At two o'clock, it seemed indeed a Confederate victory. But 'mid the ringing shout of triumph came the wail of grief—Johnston was shot through the leg by a rifle ball, and none was near with sense enough to stop the flowing blood. Still the blue flag waved victoriously with Beauregard, sick himself nigh into death, in the van.

And now Grant was at bay—the conquering foe before him, the river rolling on his rear.

But the stout heart never failed him, and with dogged determination he rallied his men. Before the enemy could reach them, they must cross a deep ravine with slippery sides and a bottom full of water.

Now was his chance.

As with Southern dash and bravery they rushed to cross this treacherous defile, Grant swept them with the fragments of his batteries, poured on them the leaden hail of musketry, while two gun-boats rained shells upon the waving line, which literally melted away before the withering volleys.

And now that cry—that wild hurrah! The Fighting Fourth came shouting to the field!

Night closed on the ghastly scene. But what a night for Grant—his camps gone, thirty flags and immense stores in the hands of the enemy, and three thousand of his men prisoners of war.

But during the night a change came over the scene. General Lewis Wallace with five thousand men and three divisions of Buell's army had crossed the stream to the aid of the beleaguered Federals.

And Monday morning dawned with drizzling rain. No longer crouching from a foe he could not grapple, Grant gave the command to advance, and with a wild hurrah the whole line moved forward, and as Wallace says: "Step by step, from tree to tree, position to position, the Confederates went back, never stopping again." In vain the brave Beauregard rode to and fro before his troops, inciting them to action; the tide of fortune had turned against them. Yet, fighting to the last, they fell back on Corinth, whose frowning guns held Grant's advance in check.

It was dreary work that followed for the next six weeks—digging trenches, making corduroy roads and advancing at the rate of half a mile a day, with the one envied luxury of joining a foraging party now and then; for, though the command was well provisioned, orders were given to raid the country.

In charge of an expedition of this character, Frank Besant had been unusually lucky, and was returning to camp one evening when they came to a comfortable farm-house, whose neat curtains and orderly out-houses promised richer plunder than their usual fortune had brought them.

"There's something strange about that house I can't make out," said Will Ridley, Frank's sergeant, and an especial favorite of the young officer; "Nary a child, nor dog, nor beast, nor fowl about the place to give a sign that folks is living there."

"P'r'aps some of the boys have been here before us," suggested one of the men.

"Or the folks have left their country residence and gone to the city for change of air," grinned another.

The Great Benefit

Which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up in a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

MIRACULOUS POWER.

The Strange Career of Moffat, the Conjurer.

Marvelous Feats of Mind-Reading and Wonderful Visions of Distant Objects Obtained Through the Power of Second-sight.

The death was lately announced of Herr Moffat, the celebrated second-sight reader and conjurer, at Bozeman, Idaho, in the act of swallowing a sword, which severed his jugular vein, and the conjurer bled to death in a few minutes.

Herr Moffat, or Francis Morell, writes a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was a resident of St. Louis, and there his wonderful talent, which made him the peer of any and led him before the crowned heads of Europe and Asia, was developed. He was a very peculiar boy in youth and was considered a crank. He lived alone with his widowed mother, supporting her by working in a stove factory. His spare moments he spent in the study of magic, and the attic of his humble little home was transformed into a chemical shop. When he was seven years old one day he suddenly burst into an uncontrollable fit of laughter. His mother asked him what pleased him so much. The boy replied that he saw his father (who was then living, but not at home) running rapidly down the mountain side trying to overtake a jug of whisky which he had let fall. The jug rolled part of the way down the declivity, but was caught by the old man before he got to the bottom. When the father reached home he confirmed the whole story to the great surprise of all. After this the boy excited much talk in the neighborhood in which he lived. About two years later the Morells were visited by a friend named Robert Vinton, with other relatives and acquaintances from Philadelphia, who came to test the lad's miraculous power, asked him various questions, and, among other things, inquired what was then going on at his (Vinton's) home in Philadelphia.

The boy described the house, which he had never seen, stated that it was built partly of brick and partly of stone, that there was a lake in front of the house, which had recently been drained, and concluded with a description of the people in the house, and of two persons, a man and a woman, who were sitting on the porch.

When Vinton reached his home in Philadelphia he inquired who had been at his home at the day and hour he had held the conversation with young Morell. He learned that there had been a shower of rain at the time and that the people who were fishing in the lake had run to the house to escape the rain. The persons who were on the porch had been faithfully described, even to the color of their hair and eyes. In short, every detail given by the boy was proven to be accurate.

He became involved in a quarrel once with a young man named Turner. Turner was to call on a young lady, and being met on his way by the young mind-reader, Morell, who was himself in love with the same young lady, they spoke to each other and passed on. Young Morell sat down on a stump and, bowing his head, conducted his mind to the parlor in which his rival and the young lady were conversing. In the course of the young man's call he proposed and was rejected. This made Morell happy. Meeting Turner on the street next day, he tantalized him about his rejection by the young lady the night preceding. Words were exchanged, and Morell drew a pistol, but friends standing by interposed, and no harm came of the quarrel. But Morell fell into intemperate habits and lost his good name. His habit, when asked to exercise his faculty of second-sight seeing, was to hold his head downward after closing his eyes. After waiting for some time, apparently in deep thought, he would declare what he saw in his visions. He was sometimes found alone in the fields, sitting on a stump and crying. On being asked the cause of his grief he said he saw great numbers of men engaged in killing each other. Although he had never up to that time seen a ship, a battle or a cannon, he described military and naval battles during the war of the rebellion as if he were an onlooker.

After the war, when he was about twenty-four years of age, another gentleman from Philadelphia, who had heard much of him, became interested, believing him to be possessed of a noble gift, and exhibited his wonderful power over the United States, drawing immense crowds in all the large cities. While in St. Louis, in 1873, he was asked by a man in one of the many throngs that came to see him: "What he was doing with that pocket-book" (insinuating that the young fellow had stolen it). "Nothing. You're the man who has stolen it," was the reply, and upon being searched by a policeman who was present, the man was found to have a pocket-book with several hundred dollars in it, which was immediately identified by a gentleman present as his. The man was arrested and found to be Black Hal, a notorious confidence man and pickpocket.

In 1879 he began a tour of the Old World which lasted seven years, where he afterwards returned, exhibiting himself over the country. His death recalled many incidents which were related by the older citizens of St. Louis. His life was a strange and checkered one.

Tobacco Chewing Waning.

Says a tobacconist in the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette: "For a long time the old American habit of tobacco chewing has been on the decline. Nearly half the men used to chew years ago, but very few if them do it now. The calls for a plug of chewing tobacco lasted all day long, but you will wait an hour now before you hear such a call. It was not only the workingmen who indulged in the habit but also the swells and the business people. The Southerners were nearly all chewers and so were the Westerners, but the quid has gone out of fashion here."

Cure for Diphtheria.

A peasant physician named Rieger, of Gitschin, in Silesia, announces a cure for diphtheria which an agent of the Emperor has examined and reported very favorably upon. It is thought to be a mixture of extracts from two or three common weeds and an oil. The solution resulting from the mixture is liquefied, and applied with a brush to the interior of the throat. The remedy was discovered by Rieger's father, a shepherd. It was applied by him only to external wounds. Once, when young Rieger's whole herd was dying of diphtheria, he, in despair of all other means, began treating their throats with the salve. The favorable effect was apparent almost immediately, and in a few days every head of cattle was well again. Shortly afterward diphtheria became epidemic in the village. Rieger was invariably called to give his remedy in the most severe cases, and almost without exception it was followed by recovery. Gradually its fame spread, till to-day he is receiving calls to cure persons of diphtheria all over Germany. The cures that have contributed most to his reputation were effected a few weeks ago in the family of the Freiherr von Falkenhausen in Berlin.

What the World Needs.

What the world needs to-day is not more medicine, but less of it. Not new methods of shutting out sunlight and the only true elixir of life, but more pure air to breathe, pure water to drink, pure food to eat, less overwork and overworry, more rational methods of labor with many toilers with brain and hand, more wholesome exercise and a calmer, more cheerful frame of mind. Tens of thousands die before their time through consuming fear of unseen and purely imaginary foes, and other tens of thousands through false teaching, the influence of false ideas, and, in consequence, of senseless violation of nature's plainest laws. Instead of losing our grip on life, we of this generation ought to be getting a firmer hold. Our boastful modern ways are pitifully weak and unreliable, asserts the Philadelphia Telegraph. It will take a hundred Kochs to lift us above the ever-swelling tide that is sweeping mankind so helplessly along toward the end of all things human.

The Crimea Going to Waste.

A St. Petersburg paper complains that the Crimea, though rich in natural resources, is neglected by the government. The editor remarks: "Some Crimean peasant digging in the ground has discovered coal, another has found a well of naphtha, a third has stumbled upon a layer of sulphate of soda, a fourth has shoveled up some gold dust; but we hear little of special scientific commissions appointed to explore the mineral wealth of our peninsula. Year by year the irrigation of the Crimea is getting worse; the rivers are drying up, and nothing is done to check the evil. The quicksands from the deserts overflow large tracts of arable soil, miles of fecund lands are covered by them every year, and nothing is done to stop their encroachment, either by irrigation or by the planting of trees on their present limits. Swarms of locusts and other destructive insects destroy the best crops every year and no effort is made to counteract this evil."

Mania for Handkerchiefs.

An extraordinary case of monomania has been developed at Vienna. A baker's assistant there has stolen no less than six hundred and forty-six pocket handkerchiefs, not for their value but because an irresistible longing to possess them has prompted him to do so. He never sold them but used to carry them about with him constantly. He was first punished in 1883, when he was condemned to a fortnight's imprisonment for stealing twenty-seven handkerchiefs. He was sentenced to the same penalty three years later for a similar offense, but the police, instead of handing him over to the jailer, sent him to the hospital to have his mental condition examined. The doctors declared him to be suffering from acute monomania. He says that when he sees a lady's handkerchief hanging out of her pocket he can not help taking it.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

COAL

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL (House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any other known Gas Coal the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Policemen and Uniforms—The Cow Nuisance—Growth of Northfield, Etc.

Now that the city police have been rigged out with handsome uniforms, the Provincial Police consider they should also be provided for in this respect. It is a fact if they wore the uniform of a police officer they would not be put to half the trouble they have now to encounter. It is generally conceded that the uniform inspires dread within a person who has been guilty of any offence against the law, and he will submit to be taken into custody, but when approached by an officer in civilian garb he will sometimes show fight, little dreaming that the man making the arrest is a constable. The Provincial Police of Victoria are uniformed, and it is only fair and proper that the Nanaimo police should receive a like consideration from the government.

A GROWING NUISANCE.

The city council have long passed a by-law regulating the nuisance, the public are suffering, but so far nothing has been done to stop the owners of cattle from allowing their beasts to wander about the city. Cows may be seen almost every moment during the day and night tramping on the sidewalk, or devastating private gardens, much to the annoyance of the residents, or when a person is enjoying their quiet repose their slumbers are disturbed by the noisy bell fastened round the neck of the cow. The nuisance extends further than this and is well known to the city council, so that it is quite time they undertook to enforce the by-law they have passed, by causing the owners of these animals to keep them from wandering on the streets to the nuisance of everybody.

THE GROWTH OF NORTHFIELD.

Persons visiting the district of Northfield (New Wellington) are surprised at the extraordinary growth of the place within the past 12 months; even those who have only been away a few months are equally surprised in returning and finding so many handsome and commodious residences erected in and around the camp. Many new streets have been opened up and a splendid road made to Departure Bay. Along the latter are many fine dwellings equally as elaborate as any of those in the city. Toward Wellington the building is progressing rapidly, and ere many more months pass we shall see these two camps very closely connected. At present building operations are carried on so close that a stone being thrown would almost reach from one end of Wellington to Northfield. All the land has been taken up by the miners on easy terms from the New V. C. Company and active gardening operations can be seen in every direction.

NITRATE SACKS CATCH FIRE.

On Wednesday afternoon some sacks which had contained nitrate were lying in the sun on the East Wellington wharf, having been discharged by the schooner Sailor Boy, when they suddenly became ignited, and as there was a number of sacks of nitrate lying near them it looked as though a large fire was imminent. One brave man stepped up to the burning material and threw many of the sacks overboard thus averting a serious conflagration. The schooner cast off from her moorings, while a prompt stream of water was played on the fire which was soon put out without any damage being done. No cause is assigned for the sacks catching fire.

FOREIGN COAL SHIPMENTS.

The shipments of coal for foreign ports during the month of June were as follows:

New V. C. Co.	40,930
Wellington	27,758
East Wellington	5,575
Union	4,500
Total	78,763

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

The Thursday afternoon closing is to be dispensed with, and a movement is on foot to close the stores an hour earlier each evening.

The magistrate at Nanaimo is having his hands well filled of late and the court cases are becoming quite extensive.

Mr. J. Stake was severely injured at Wellington on Wednesday, caused by the sodden bolting of his horse which trod upon his face and cut it badly.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Capt. Powers, of Moodyville, is in town.

Miss Coughlan, teacher of Denman Island school, is in the city.

Mrs. and Miss Wallace, of Denver, Colorado, are visiting Mrs. O'Neill, of Douglas street.

Col. Holmes, D.A.G., Capt. Jones, and Capt. Ogilvie, of C battery, left for Seattle this morning.

S. M. Shattuc, of the O. & M. railway, D. M. Tone, Pensylvania railway, and Jay W. Adams, of the C. & A. railway, are at the Driard.

H. C. Beeton, agent-general for B.C., has been appointed a governor to represent the Province in the governing body of the Imperial Institute.

Messrs. Sutherland, of South Comox, Robins, of North Comox, Watkins, of Beaver Point, and Johnson, of Craigflower, all public school teachers, are spending their holidays in the city.

Sergt. W. J. H. Holmes, son of Col. Holmes, of this city, has graduated from Kingston with honors, being first in civil and military engineering, and honorably mentioned in other subjects.

Mr. A. J. C. Galletly, the popular manager of the Bank of Montreal at Brantford, has received word from the head office, Montreal, notifying him of his promotion to the managership of the large branch at Victoria, B.C.—London, Ont., Free Press.

Dr. S. G. Tunstall, of Kamloops, is in the city, where he will remain for a week or so recruiting his health. The Dr. has been to Harrison Springs for the last two weeks, and finds that he has been much benefited by the use of the waters of this Siloam of British Columbia.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.
